

TWO MEN CAUGHT ON TRUCK WITH BEER TAKEN INTO CUSTODY BY POLICE; BOTH ARE HELD IN $1,000.00 BAIL FOR COURT

TRUCK LOADED AT TRENTON; MAKES DELIVERY HERE

Makes from One to Three Trips Daily to Bristol and
Other Bucks Co. Towns

IS PAID $35.00 WEEKLY

Both Men Released Under
$1,000 Each After Hearing
Before Justice Lynn

Two men in a light delivery truck with five cartons of beer were taken into custody here yesterday afternoon by Officer Thomas Ryan. The arrest was made at Farragut avenue and Monroe street.

The truck, a two-door sedan, had the name Edward Daves, Trenton, N. J., on the side. The windows in the rear doors had been painted black. The glass in both of the side doors had been replaced with metal.

The men caught on the truck gave the names of Morris Gale, 820 S. Warren street, Trenton, N. J., and Fiedel Arthur DeCote, 211 Ferry street, Trenton, N. J.

Gale told Justice Lynn that he was a run-runner. He said that he worked for Edward Daves, 117 Bridge street, Trenton. He stated that he had never seen Daves nor did he know where he lived.

According to the story told by Gale he receives the truck on South Warren street, Trenton, from a man whom he does not know. "I take it and the beer to wherever they tell me," he is quoted as saying.

He receives $35 per week and is paid every Saturday by the man who delivers the truck to him. Sometimes he makes one trip a day and then there are other days when he makes three to five trips.

Both men were held in $1,000 bail for further hearing on April 30th.

The police have had the number of the car for sometime and have been on the lookout for it. Up until yesterday the officers have always been just a little late in order to make an arrest. Yesterday, however, Ryan, caught the truck with its contents. It is believed, however, that several deliveries had been made here before the capture was made.

Gale talked freely and implicated a number of well known residents here to whom he stated he had made deliveries from time to time.

This is the second beer truck caught here recently. Officer Betts captured one at Greenlane during the early hours of one morning recently. The case is now listed for the May term of court.

It is believed that Trenton run runners are carting great quantities of beer into Bucks County. State Police recently caught Samuel Lavine, 564 Bellevue avenue, Trenton, as he drove a truck to Trevese with a load of liquor. Lavine was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $200.

The day was a warm one for early April, but it's a safe bet the three youngsters had hopeful visions of hot beverage and plenty of it as they scrambled into their clothes behind a bush on the bank and hurried home at such speed as would warm up every portion of their chilled bodies.

CHILD SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Helen Nowack, 13, Newport Road, Has Possible Skull Fracture

MAN HELD UNDER BAIL

A 13-year old girl, Helen Nowack, Newport Road, Bristol Township, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon as she crossed the Newport Road into the lane of her home after getting a ride home from the Newportville school.

Ruth Wilkinson and Helen, of Newport Road, thumbed a ride home from school with Mrs. Edith Harding, 905 Garden street, Bristol. Mrs. Harding was accompanied by her little daughter and the four had reached a point on the Newport Road about 75 yards east of Grundy's corner, when the accident happened.

Mrs. Harding stopped her car and the Nowack youngster got out and walked around the rear of the machine. Neither Mrs. Harding, the injured child or the Wilkinson girl saw any other car approaching.

A car driven by Charles Giano, 18, 452 Logan street, Bristol, ran down the Nowack youngster.

The child suffered a possible fracture of the skull, lacerations of the face and left side of head, requiring 12 stitches, and abrasions of the left knee. She is in the Harriman Hospital.

As the Nowack and Wilkinson girl stood near the Newportville public school thumbing a ride to their homes the brother of the Wilkinson girl passed them and told them that he was going to walk home and would beat them there. As the Harding car stopped in front of the Nowack house the boy caught up with them and was going to get into the car when the accident occurred.

Giano was given a hearing before Justice Lynn and held in $1500 bail to await the outcome of the injuries to the child.

Mrs. Emma Forsythe, of Wilmington, Del., spent several days last week as the guest of Mrs. S. Pedrick, of Beaver street.

George Shepherd, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl, of 322 Wood street, for the past ten days, has returned to his home in Glendale, Long Island.

BOYS FIRE BOILER AND RUN ROLLER; THEN LEAVE IT DRY

Authorities Determined To Break Up Sixth Ward
Gangs

PARENTS ARE FINED

Many Complaints Have Been Received About Damage
At High School

A group of boys who found practicing for Boys' Week entirely too tame, last Monday evening took a hand at operating the Borough's steam roller which was standing in the yard of the high school.

There were six in all implicated in the affair, according to the police records. A general round-up of the group was made by police officers and the six stood up for trial before Justice Edward Lynn last night.

According to the police the boys got up steam in the roller and actually had it moving. They then left the machine with a hot fire and all of the water was boiled out of the boiler. When the roller engineer went to work yesterday morning he found the boiler had been tampered with.

The six were stood up in municipal court last night at 9:30 o'clock. Their names were called and their parents, if present, were ordered to stand beside them by Justice Lynn.

Each of the boys admitted the part he had taken in the affair and said they had "pushed the steam in and out, turned the wheel and played about the machine." They were given a severe reprimand by Justice Lynn, who also informed the parents that he could send the children to juvenile court at Doylestown and they would probably be sent to a reform school.

Much trouble has been experienced about the high school in the Sixth Ward and the authorities have determined that it shall cease. The police have many, many complaints. Windows are broken, automobiles are tampered with and batteries have been stolen from cars during affairs at the school.

Justice Lynn last night fined each parent $2 and refused to release any of the boys until the parents had paid their fines. He warned all that more severe action would be taken for the next offense.

The boys gave their names as follows:

BRISTOL HIGH ONE RUN SHORT AT MORRISVILLE

"Lefty" Selzer Pitches His Team to Victory in Diamond Contest

FINAL SCORE IS 1 TO 0

"Lefty" Selzer, of Morrisville High School, almost entered the Hall of Fame yesterday when he pitched his team to a one-hit victory over Bristol High in a fast game played at Morrisville.

Not only did this youth give but one hit but he fanned ten Bristol hitters to conclude his day's work. Gaffney, the only one to find the Morrisville's hurler for a bingle, did his trick in the very first inning. From then on Selzer was master of the situation.

The defeat places Bristol in second place in the Lower Bucks County League, while Morrisville rests in the top position.

The features of yesterday's game were two brilliant catches made by Gaffney in centerfield. Each robbed the batter of a possible double or triple.

An error by Massilla in the initial frame accounted for the winners' only tally, and ruined a fine pitching job by Harte. Harte set the Morrisville team down with but three hits and deserved a better fate than he received.

Bristol passed up opportunities to score in the fifth and sixth innings. In the fifth, with men on second and third and one out, Gaffney and Massilla, Bristol's two best hitters, struck (Continued on Page 4)

Foul Play Feared In Disappearance of Harstine

Clarence Harstine, deputy customs collector, of Chester, formerly of Upper Black Eddy, was either "taken for a ride" by smuggling bootleggers or ended his life in some secluded spot, Chester detectives believe.

Harstine, 40, vanished from his home, 904 E. 14th street, Chester, on the evening of April 8, stating he was going to board a vessel unloading a cargo at a Chester plant. He never reached the wharf.

Police discard the theory that he is a victim of amnesia, as he had cards and other credentials to identify him. He also carried his federal badge.

His accounts have been found to be correct by inspectors and a large bank account had been found untouched. He is a World War veteran and single, but police think he may have had a secret love affair.

Harstine kept a close watch on rum smuggling since his appointment to the office one year ago, and some are inclined to believe he may have run across bootleggers unloading and met with foul play.

—Blames School Children for Accident

When the Civil War broke out he was one of the first to join the Union service in Pennsylvania. A call for veteran volunteers found him placed with the 14th Regiment, Company B, Pennsylvania Veterans. During the four years of fighting he was engaged in most of the major campaigns. TRY A COURIER CLASSIFIED "AD"

According to Edwards he and Miss Zollner were en route to Flemington, N. J., where Miss Zollner was to keep house for Edwards' aunt while the latter went back to Philadelphia with Edwards to care for his mother whom he says is seriously ill.

Edwards told the police he escaped from the hospital because he did not want to have the notoriety for his parents.

Edwards was given a hearing before Justice Edward Lynn and held in $2,000 bail to await the outcome of the woman's injuries.

Edwards was placed under arrest immediately after the accident by Superintendent of Public Safety McGee. The man was unable to produce a driver's license but claimed that he had one but that it was lost in the crash. His pocketbook and other belongings he said were also in the wrecked car.

Superintendent McGee placed Officer Thomas Ryan at the hospital to remain with Edwards until such time as a Highway Patrolman arrived. Edwards' clothing was terribly torn in the accident and McGee summoned a tailor to the hospital to do the necessary repairing so that Edwards would be in a presentable condition to take to police headquarters. While Edwards' trousers were being repaired he was placed in the hospital ward. Officer Ryan sat outside in the corridor. After a reasonable lapse of time Ryan became suspicious and went back to see where his prisoner was. The window was open but the prisoner had gone.

Ryan sounded the alarm and a search was started for the fugitive who was located at the station.

GLANDS AND THE EMOTIONS

The much-discussed theory of Dr. Sigmund Freud that nervous disorders result from suppressed desires is said to have been accepted in some quarters as an excuse for licentiousness. There seems to be danger that the theories now being put out concerning the ductless glands may also have an evil effect for the gist of the new doctrine is that conduct is governed by the manner in which they work, and this appears to present human beings as under the control of physiological forces which they cannot regulate, and so not responsible for what they do.

An example of the new teaching may be found in a recent declaration of Dr. Charles Lewis Mix, professor of clinical medicine in Northwestern University. Cowardice, he says, is a matter of physiology and not of mentality and character. "Fear is caused by the suspension of secretion by the adrenal glands, which are just above but not connected with the kidneys. It is this stopping of the secretions at the moment of fright that causes the dilated pupil of the eye, the dry mouth, shakey knees and soaring heart that are symptoms of fear. After the first moment of alarm, the glands renew their secretions with more than normal activity, thus restoring the balance of courage and enabling animals under observation to cope vigorously with the situations confronting them."

Teachers of the theory concerning the ductless glands profess to be able to account for the character and actions of great men by telling how the glands worked. If the glands are in proper condition or will achieve greatness, they say; and if they are not it is futile to expect greatness. This is a sort of fatalism which, if generally accepted, would tend to discourage effort.

But there is one cheerful feature of the theory. It is suggested that means may be found to stimulate or regulate the glands so as to make of their possessors whatever is desired. It is proposed for instance, to make brave men out of cowards by medical or surgical treatment which will increase the flow of deficient adrenal glands.

The good die young, perhaps; at any rate goodness frequently does.

Parents and friends of the Hulmeville Troop of Boy Scouts are invited to the basement of the M. E. Church, Friday evening, to attend a meeting of the troop. There will be many interesting features. It is asked that each individual in town consider it a duty as well as a privilege to be at this meeting, giving their moral support to the Scouts in their fine work. At the last open meeting there were few adults present, and a large group is desired out Friday evening.

Buying Public Protected In Recent Court Decision

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 16.—A court decision in which protection of the buying public is emphasized has just been handed down by Judge Thompson, presiding in United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, in the case of Vick Chemical Co. against Frederick E. Strohmeyer and involving fraudulent use of the plaintiff's trade name, Vicks VapoRub, by the defendant, Strohmeyer. The Vick Chemical Company is upheld.

"The defendant will be enjoined," Judge Thompson's decision reads, "against use of the plaintiff's trade name, as he has been using it, to deceive and perpetrate a fraud upon the public and, by pirating its trade mark, to injure and damage the reputation the plaintiff has built up."

"A decree may be entered for an injunction accordingly and for damages sustained by the plaintiff and profits derived by the defendant from his acts of infringement and unfair competition."

This case grew out of the action of Strohmeyer in the marketing of a cough drop which he claimed, on the package, was "Medicated with Vicks VapoRub." As to this alleged medication, Judge Thompson says in his decision:

"I find from the medical testimony that, as manufactured, there is no real medication by means of Vicks VapoRub in the defendant's product. That being the case, that statement of medication is false and untrue. . . . I am not satisfied . . . that the defendant has introduced any testimony sufficient to sustain his claim that Vicks VapoRub is used at all in his cough drops."

Vicks VapoRub is the sole product of Vick Chemical Co. and has been marketed for a number of years. It was introduced in evidence that over $7,000,000 has been spent in advertising to establish this product in the confidence of the public, and the extent of such confidence was disclosed in the evidence that over 250,000,000 jars have been sold since 1910, throughout the United States and in over 60 countries abroad. It was charged that the defendant Strohmeyer, by pirating the Vick trade name, was trying to establish his unknown product by associating it in the public mind with Vicks VapoRub, thus not only accomplishing infringement, but perpetrating a fraud upon the public. The decision of the court upholds this charge and enjoins Strohmeyer from further use of the Vick trade name in connection with his product.

SOL FURTH TO COMPETE IN SIX INDOOR EVENTS

NEW YORK, Apr. 16.—(INS)—Busy as they were, the one-armed paper-hanger or the one-legged man at a kicking match were never more industrious than will be Sol Furth, New York University track captain, at the annual Penn Relays at Philadelphia, April 25 and 26.

Sol, or Happy, as the boys call him, will climax a busy winter on the indoor boards by competing in no less than six events. Though not interested in the decathlon, Furth will be almost as industrious as the all-around boys. The decathlon competitors will compete in five events the first day, Furth four. On Saturday the Violet leader will try his hand in two more events.

Here is Furth's Friday program. Preliminary heats, semi-finals and finals in the 120-yard high hurdles; hop, step and jump; quarter mile relay and, to top off the afternoon, participation in the sprint medley relays.

After a good night of sleep Furth will come back on Saturday to fling himself through the air in the broad jump and take part in the half mile sprint relay.

The thought of two such strenuous afternoons does not worry Furth. He's used to that sort of thing. During the indoor season he took part in almost every meet of any standing in this section of the country and in many of them emerged high-scorer.

His specialty is hurdling but he is an exceptional broad jumper and a capable dash man. He opened his winter season by running a beautiful race in the sixty meter hurdles to establish a new world's mark. He displayed fine sprinting ability in the Millrose games by running on the Violet half-mile relay team that set a new world's mark of 1:32.04. He equaled the world's marks of 8 1-5 seconds for the seventy-yard hurdles, came in first in the hurdle event of the intercollegiate and placed third in the running broad jump with a fine leap.

Furth, for a record-smashing hurdler, is surprisingly small. Swung low to the ground, so to speak, and heavily muscled, he resembles a dashman much more than he does a sprinter. Whereas tall, lithe hurdlers like Monty Wells, can skim across the bars, Furth is forced to leap over and trust to his speed to make up for the lost time.

Many of his followers are of the opinion that though he has scored heavily as a timber topper, he would have been even more successful as a sprinter.

If Furth displays the same form at Philadelphia that he did during the winter season, New York University is certain of returning from the relays with a whole lot more than their chair seat stubs.

Miss Lillian Babbitt, of Edgely, will pass the Easter holidays in Washington, D. C.

Gasoline Volatility One of Prime Factors in Operation

Volatility in gasoline is one of the prime factors in the efficient operation of the modern automobile motor, says a local official of the Gulf Refining Company, large producers and refiners of gasolines and motor oils. Volatility resulting in instant and complete vaporization is secured by the use of motor fuels possessing an end point of 400 degrees Fahrenheit or lower.

The Gulf Refining Company is marketing just the kinds of gasoline from which the best results are to be obtained—That Good Gulf Gasoline with 400 degrees Fahrenheit End Point and Gulf No-Nox Motor Fuel 374 degrees Fahrenheit End Point. These gasolines vaporize instantly and completely to the last drop—giving quick starting, quick pick-up, more power and greater mileage. Both of these fuels also possess high anti-knock quality which is of vital importance for successful operation of the modern high compressor motor.

While carbon is not desirable, it is always found to a greater or less degree in all motors after a few thousand miles of running—carbon deposits increase the ratio of compression which is very satisfactorily overcome by these anti-knock fuels. Fuel knocks which are apt to occur on hills and during quick acceleration in traffic are not only annoying but detrimental to the motor. Retarding the spark will reduce the knock but likewise reduces power. The safe and sane way to get rid of them is to use fuels of known anti-knock quality.

And further—the End Point of gasoline has nothing to do with the anti-knock quality. Many ordinary motor which may render them anti-knock but the quick, responsive vaporization is lacking. A good, straight-run petroleum product with 400 degrees End Point or better and high anti-knock quality is the best for your motor.

CHARLEROI, Pa., Apr. 16.—(INS)—Tattered and torn, a famed old Civil War flag which was carried by Company D, 79th Pennsylvania Infantry, of Lancaster, Pa., is soon to pass into the possession of the Charleroi High School.

That is the proposition of "Daddy" Wise, who fought with that company under the old flag. It was turned over to "Daddy" when Comrade Lafayette Culbertson died. Comrade Culbertson was the color bearer of Company D, and he had taken proud care of the silken stars and stripes he carried in many battles.

Now "Daddy" Wise is getting older as the Civil War recedes into the past so far as time is concerned and he feels that he will not be able to guard the standard much longer. Therefore he will turn over the flag to the people of Charleroi, for the high school, if they will provide a suitable case for it. "Daddy" wants to be sure that the memorable silken folds shall be kept free from the ravages of the atmosphere, even though it too, be subject to the ravages of time.

SUNBURY, Apr. 16.—(INS)—Railroad men are good natured and no one will deny it, but it did seem like asking a little too much—what one little girl asked recently.

Harry Paige, engineer on the L. and T. of the Pennsylvania was taking his heavy train through the Paddy Mountains, near Lindale. The flag signal was set against him, and he brought the train to a stop. A little girl stood along the right of way, and smiled a beaming smile as the train came to a halt.

"Did you want to get on the train?" queried the trainman.

"Oh, no, sir, but will you please mail this letter for me at your train post office?" came the request that startled the engineer.
